Buerk acquitted

Westland principal found not guilty in sting case

By SUE McDONALD
ANP News Editor

Stevenson Junior High School principal Richard Buerk will be back to school on Monday, following his acquittal this week of charges stemming from an undercover State Police "sting" operation at an I-275 rest stop in Canton Township.

Buerk, who had been charged with indecent exposure and disorderly conduct, was found not guilty of the charges after a more than two-hour trial before 35th District Court Judge James Garbor Monday.

According to his attorney, C. Charles Bokos, "the court had doubt that there was a violation of state laws and found him not guilty."

"I obviously am pleased for my client," Bokos said in an interview Tuesday. "We knew he would be exonerated once the court heard all of the evidence."

Buerk had been suspended with pay from his job on Oct. 17 as the result of a story which appeared in The Eagle that day about his arrest and those of several other area residents during the State Police crackdown on alleged homosexual activities at the rest stop.

Following his acquittal Monday, he was reinstated to his administrative position at the junior high school, and, based on the recommendation of Superintendent Dr. Dennis O'Neill, the Board of Education voted to dismiss tenure charges that had been brought against him as the result of the arrest.

"I'm very glad it's behind us," O'Neill said of the incident. "We all had to do some things we didn't like doing, but they were done in the best interests of the school district. Personally, I am very pleased for Rich (Buerk)."

Janet Luke, who had been named as an acting assistant principal at the school, following Buerk's suspension, will return to her classroom duties. According to O'Neill, Buerk will be "taking a few vacation days" before returning to school next week.

He added that the principal will have the support of the school district's administrative staff, noting that "if you believe in the principle of innocent until proven guilty, you have to support him now. He had his day in court and he was found not guilty."

"If you believe in the principles of this democracy, then you have to support the man. We will and we will help in any way we can," O'Neill concluded.

According to Bokos, he and his client will be looking at possible litigation against the media as the result of newspaper and television coverage of the arrests.

"It was a travesty of justice; it was unfair to lump my client together with the other cases," Bokos said. "Assumptions were made as a result that weren't true."

"He's been besmashed beyond belief. In my 20 years in law I have never seen a client subjected to the grief that he was. The media literally tried and convicted him before he had his day in court."

Romulus city officials and some residents, upset over the number of adult foster care facilities (group homes) going into the city as compared to certain other communities, have been unable to get what they term a "reasonable" answer as to the city's power to have a say in matters concerning the controversial care settings.

At Monday evening's council meeting, clerk Linda Choate said she had not received answers from inquiries made to various state and county departments, including Director of Social Services Mary Agnes Monsieur. "The only answer I've gotten was from Senator (Gerald) Faust's office, who've had trouble getting information too."

Senate Bill 179, which was introduced by Faust in 1983,

"I was in touch with Senator Faust's office earlier today, and they were busy preparing a new bill, one which would give the localities more teeth."

would make adult foster care facilities adhere to strict guidelines, including possibly limiting the number of such homes in the community based on "the population of the municipality multiplied by a fraction equal to the number of existing community placement beds ... divided by the population of this state."

Other stipulations in the bill include periodic inspection reports turned over to the local clerk's office, that there be "at least one community placement facility within each municipality in the county in which the facility is proposed to be situated, and that a list of name, address and official position of each person having an ownership interest in the facility" be turned over to the local clerk's offices.

But, according to councilman Barry Baumann, who said he had "been in touch with Senator Faust's office earlier" Monday, the bill was "shot down in Lansing."

Baumann reported that "Faust's office was busy preparing a new bill, one which would give the localities more teeth, more say" into what happens in the communities.

According to Choate, a number of residents had contacted city hall after attempts to get more information about proposed group homes in their neighborhoods failed. They had been directed to call the consultant for the home, as stated on the license.

"One women," said Choate, "told me how upset she was, not over the home really, but over the way she had been treated by the consultant."

"She said that the consultant told her 'It doesn't make any difference, you can't do anything anyways.'"

Beginning in September, when council had four group home proposals before them, they decided to stop conducting public hearings on the homes, since they were unable to have any say into the situations. Because of the council-conducted meetings, many residents vented their wrath at the board, unaware of their no-win situation. "No matter what, they get upset with us, and it cost the city money to hold the hearings," said Baumann at the time.

Instead of public hearings, the city has held its obligation to inform home owners living within 1,500 feet of the proposed sites by letter, which includes the name and telephone number of the home consultant, who, according to the applica-and townships throughout the state.

2. The cities and townships must be made an integral part in the planning and placement of these facilities, consistent with their land use responsibilities.

3. To encourage compliance, the State's fair share policy could be linked to the reimbursement of State funds for various programs.

4. The State should stop processing all adult foster care licenses until the present legislation is reviewed and a fair share policy is adopted.

5. The State should increase the level of staffing and better train the individuals that own/operate group homes.

6. The mentally ill should not be involved with the Small Group Home Program. An alternate program should be developed for the placement of the mentally ill in communities.

7. Adult foster care licenses should be limited to one per owner/operator.

8. All budgets for the operation of group homes should be reviewed by the State, in particular the Department of Management and Budget.

CHIROPRACTIC OUTLOOK

By Dr. Thomas Anderson

HEALING WITH TRACTION

Back or neck tied up in knots? Your chiropractor will thoroughly examine any spinal malfunction and may suggest the use of traction as one of several drugless means of restoring spinal flexibility. How will this natural method coax your spinal musculature to relax?

Your doctor of chiropractic applies a gentle pulling force to counteract the existing muscle tension in the tissues surrounding your spinal column. This traction method helps correct any mis-alignment that is causing your distress.

Traction is a gentle way of decompressing your spine, relieving pressure on the discs, relaxing compressed nerves. Comfortable traction in the cervical (neck) and lumbar (lower) back areas helps open the intervertebral disc spaces. Relief of pain is almost immediate, and overall improvement follows.

Murder mystery

Fisher murder investigation continues

By ROSE MARY REIZ
ANP Staff Writer

The Wayne County Prosecutor's Office is reviewing facts surrounding the death of Ella Marie Fisher, who was murdered in her Canton Township home in July.

"The case is still under investigation, and we are working with the prosecutor's office and trying to determine the best avenue of

"We are working with the prosecutor's office . . . We have not requested a warrant in this case, nor do we have any immediate plans for doing so."

Canton Police Lt. Larry Stewart

approach," Canton Police Lt. Larry Stewart explained.

A special prosecutor is questioning witnesses and reviewing evidence which includes laboratory tests and doctors' reports, Stewart said.

"He may come back with a recommendation that we request a warrant, or give us some other suggestions for what directions we should take."

Ella Fisher was 32 years old when, on July 20, her family removed life support systems that had kept her mechanically alive since she was found unconscious on her living room floor July 15.

She had apparently been held while her arms and feet were bound with rope and duct tape was wrapped around her head, covering her nose and mouth. Police estimated that Fisher had been deprived of an adequate air supply for almost two hours.

The attempted murder was discovered by the victim's husband, Charles Fisher, 44, who said he was awakened by noises in his Thornwood home shortly after midnight.

Fisher told police he went into the kitchen to investigate and was knocked unconscious, later waking to find himself tied and on his bed. He freed himself, he said, went into the living room and stumbled over his wife, bound on the floor.

The victim was transported to the hospital, where she remained in a coma. Charles Fisher was examined for bruises to the hand and knee and released.

About $200 in cash and the family's truck, later recovered in Detroit, were stolen in the incident. Additional money and electronic equipment in the home were left untouched.

Stewart, in charge of the case, said that police could find no signs of forced entry in the Fisher's home, and that subsequent attempts to identify perpetrators have failed.

Stewart said that, although Fisher has not been eliminated as a suspect in his wife's death, no warrant has been requested and that investigators "are still open to the possibility that other people may be involved.

"It's not our practice to name suspects until a warrant has been issued," Stewart explained, "and announcing that we intend to seek a warrant is premature. You go to a prosecutor, not for the purpose of asking for a warrant, but to learn what more you need to establish a case against anybody.

"We have not requested a warrant in this case," Stewart stressed, "nor do we have any immediate plans for doing so."

Fisher's attorney, Daniel Burrress, responded to published reports that his client is a prime suspect in the murder of his wife, and that police intend to seek a warrant for him.

"This is a man who is grieving deeply over the death of his wife," Burrress said of his client. "If you've talked to him, he's told you not only of his innocence, but his desire to have the people involved brought to justice.

"Nobody from the newspapers publishing those statements has called me," Burrress added, "but it looks like the police obviously don't have anyone else, so they're going after Mr. Fisher — that's how it would appear."

Fisher's lawyer said he has requested copies of the results of tests performed by the police, and that he understands test results are inconclusive.

"I don't know why I haven't been supplied with follow-up results of tests that have been run," Burrress said. "The last word I had from police was on Oct. 9."

Burrress also denied reports that his client has refused to be interviewed by police.

"Mr. Fisher was interviewed by the police for at least four hours after the incident," Burrress said. "Upon my advise, he is now speaking through me, but I can communicate with him at any time, and I am willing to receive written questions for him from the police.

"Mr. Fisher has spent hours with the police, has cooperated with them and told them everything he can," Burrress added. "Any suggestion that he has not communicated with them should be questioned thoroughly."

In an interview with the Eagle in September, Fisher said that, while he hoped his wife's attackers were caught, he was "concentrating primarily on trying to hold myself together.

"If they catch the people who did this, which I hope they do, that's great," Fisher said. "That way, they won't hurt anyone else. But our lives are ruined, either way. Nothing will ever be the same for me again."

Fisher, a micro-biologist, sold the Canton home last month and returned to a teaching position at Ross University in Dominica, an island in the West Indies.

Ella Marie Fisher was a graduate student in trans-cultural nursing at Wayne State University. She planned to pursue a nursing career in Bolivia after obtaining her degree.

LONG DISTANCE TELEPHONE EMPLOYEE IS RUDE AND INCONSIDERATE!!!

Dear Letter Writer:

I have an account with one of the long distance telephone companies that have risen up since the AT&T divestiture. Recently I received a bill for my calls. There were several numbers on the bill that I didn't recognize and I decided to call the company and ask for clarification.

When I placed the call, I simply requested that the man who answered from the billing department give me an answer as to where the area codes were located in the United States so that I could determine whether or not I made the calls. He acted so rude and inconsiderate that I asked for another service representative. I would like to write a letter to tell the company what happened and also to commend the second serviceman that I spoke with.

Sincerely, LE

Dear Telephone Customer Service Department:

On November 20, 1984, I received my monthly invoice from MCI. Upon reviewing it, I noticed that there were several telephone numbers on the bill that I did not recognize. I placed a call to the Customer Service Number on the invoice and reached Mike B in the Southfield, Michigan office. I explained the above to Mike and asked him to provide me with the locations of the area codes in question. He indicated to me that he did not have a list of the calls that I made. I responded by asking him "who did" as they were listed on my bill and must have come from somewhere. By this time, clearly annoyed, Mike put me on hold and some ten minutes later returned to the phone and, with a very noticeable "tone in his voice", provided me with partial information.

I asked him if he would mind answering a couple more questions to which he replied "for a little bit" (meaning a little bit of time). I asked, "Why are you so — why do you have such an irritated attitude". Mike responded, "You don't have to treat me like a piece of s. . .". I explained to him that I was not doing that; that I was a customer and had a problem. I asked Mike if I could speak with another service representative and I asked him for his name. Mike, without providing me with his name, put me on hold, again, for at least five minutes and the next voice I heard was that of Derrick G. Mr. G. answered the balance of my questions and then, at my request, provided me with Mike's last name and the mailing addresses of both the Washington and Southfield, Michigan offices.

It should be quite obvious to you by now that I am feeling a certain amount of distaste with the way in which I was handled as a user of the MCI service.

This letter is being written to serve a two-fold purpose. First, and foremost, to make you aware of the way in which Derrick G rescued your good name with me as a customer. Mr. G met my needs with courtesy and a reasonable explanation and he should be made aware of his value to your company. Secondly, to express my consternation with regard to the way in which Mike treated my service needs.

Hopefully, you will accept this letter in the spirit in which it is intended.

Sincerely, LE

Your responses to my column are appreciated. Keep in touch with me at 41727 Joy Road, Canton, MI 48187 or (313) 455-8892. Due to space constraints, the original letter to The Letter Writer is always shortened in this column.

Happy anniversary!

Residents of Wayne will commemorate this weekend the 10th anniversary of their Community Center opening.

The Community Center is a shining example of what can happen when citizens and government officials work together towards a common goal. This municipally-owned and operated facility on Howe Road was a well conceived and promoted building project that has become a source of pride throughout the community.

First of all, the Community Center was not a political whim; its construction was approved by voters who ratified a $1,995,000 bond issue to fund the project. Secondly, developers had the foresight to propose a multi-use facility that included an ice arena, meeting rooms, offices and a recreation center.

While local ice arenas have suffered during difficult economic times, the Community Center's multiple uses have proven invaluable. Today the building serves more than 20,000 visitors every month with its programs and facilities.

In many ways this building is the hub of the community. Persons from throughout the city gather here for various reasons: to relax, exchange ideas, celebrate an occasion, learn new skills or, simply, to have fun.

With 20,000 visitors passing through the Community Center each month, one would expect a measure of controversy. Complaints regarding inadequate services, scheduling and prices, however, have surfaced infrequently.

Soon this community resource will enable the City of Wayne to receive national recognition. More than 3,500 skaters from around the world will compete here next August in the Ice Skating Institute of America Recreational Championships. The Community Center will serve as headquarters for the international event.

We encourage residents of Wayne and surrounding communities to participate in the 10th anniversary celebration which begins Friday at the Community Center. Persons of all ages will find something of interest whether it be racquetball, ice skating, cartoons, dancing or old-fashioned camaraderie.

After 10 years the Wayne Community Center rates among the most positive developments in the history of the city. We hope the next 10 years bring continued success.

Shopping...

Picture a family of the 1800's riding by horse-drawn wagon five long miles to shop "in town." It was no doubt an event, one that occurred infrequently and considered very special. Once in town, there were limited selections and high prices, but excitement and the entertainment of a family outing, nonetheless.

We look back now, and see that "town" shopping has long since given way to shopping center malls. In these new meccas of shopping, prices are and have been competitive, selections are mind-boggling and the attraction to shoppers nearly unparalleled.

Downtown centers have been dealt staggering blows by these centers. Their ability to do said damage was aided by chain-type stores, economy of scale and to some extent, the arrogant, self-centered attitude historically present with small town merchants.

"If the public wants it, they have to come to us to get it and they'll pay our price for it," was the attitude many local merchants had for many years. In marketing, the textbooks say, "find a need and fill it." Centers found this need, perpetuated by the poor attitude of smaller merchants, and they filled it.

Of late, however, shoppers have grown weary of being treated by mall store employees like cattle. They dislike being serviced by clerks who know little or nothing of the products they are paid to sell.

The entrepreneurial spirit in recent years has enveloped the country and a new breed of hometown merchants has been emerging. Some are the sons and daughters of old-time merchants. Some are mates of breadwinners who have the luxury of working for little or no wages while getting a shop established. Some are business or marketing grads who feel they "know what the people want and how to give it to them."

These hometown folks are marketing their products or services with style, pizzazz and creativity. They advertise with a plan, a purpose and in a manner that is well timed and coordinated in more than one media or medium.

With all of that, it's still tough going to compete against the big guys. Isolated, individual merchants have an impossible task, attracting and holding a trade. But, clustered with other merchants working in concert through community promotions, chamber of commerce or merchant associations that attract shoppers, they can compete, they can prosper and they can offer the consumers what malls can not or will not.

Malls have seen this trend back to community shopping. They are becoming more aware of the location of the market — and that is close to the center. They are advertising again locally, they are modernizing and continuing to host community-oriented events.

They know their strengths and they know their weaknesses. Local merchants need to become smarter and do the same. They must also learn to play their strengths.

This Christmas season, after early predictions of a strong selling quarter, fear has set in. Merchants are hanging out the "Sale" sign in order to buy a potential sag in sales resulting from a slowing of the economy.

Shoppers, from early indications, are willing to spend and will therefore, benefit

Waste disposal

To the Editor:

I am happy to report receipt of a letter in response to my letter to Dr. Ronald O. Skoog, Director of the Department of Natural Resources, requesting early approval of the Wayne County Solid Waste Management Plan that was submitted to the Department.

The letter indicated that the approval of the plan in no way obviates the responsibility of disposal area operators to comply with Act 641 and the rules promulgated thereunder.

The Wayne County Solid Waste Management Committee has been working diligently for a long time putting together a plan that affects the solid waste disposal. I can personally attest to the diligent efforts for I have attended a number of meetings and know of the sincere desire to put together a plan that will benefit everyone concerned.

I introduced the first piece of legislation enacted into law in 1965 and later additional legislation setting Michigan on the road to better waste management. Back in the early days of my career, I had discovered that there was not one statute controlling or regulating waste in this State. We, as a State, have been moving slowly in that direction.

With the early approval in less than one month after receiving the plan, the Department of Natural Resources took affirmative action. This will then allow Wayne County to submit applications for funding for resource recovery projects and other avenues open to the County to manage the solid waste more efficiently and to reduce dependence upon landfills. Wayne County is now in a position to begin implementation of the plan developed by the Wayne County Solid Waste Management Committee.

Oh the joys of Christmas!
Santa Claus seems to arrive earlier and earlier each year. Not even George Orwell's "1984" prophesized the coming of St. Nick in mid-November. Apparently no one told certain shopping mall operators that the man from the North Pole makes his appearance locally on Thanksgiving Day.
Now daddy told three-year-old Matthew that Santa Claus comes to town on Thanksgiving and we'd see him at the parade. Later Matthew could sit on Santa's lap and give him all the information concerning that Sesame Street telephone he coveted.

Imagine Matthew's surprise at seeing Santa in local malls this month a week before Thanksgiving. Not to mention daddy's surprise. Try telling a kid that Santa was just trying to get a jump on the holiday spirit and became confused. . . especially when Santa's arrival would be publicized again a week later on Thanksgiving.
Please don't misunderstand, I've come to accept the commercialism of Christmas. The 7 a.m. store openings, the push and shove of goodwill shoppers and the materialistic aspects of the holidays are a way of life. But Santa hitting the malls in mid-November? That's another matter.
Daddys and mommys need some sort of protection from those who trample on tradition for the sake of a few bucks. Without legislation some author will tell the tale of "1984," and the annual coming of Santa Claus on Labor Day.

What we need is an amendment to the Constitution, a Santa "clause" that would help maintain the spirit of Christmas. It could take the form of a proclamation:
Whereas Santa Claus embodies the spirit of love and giving; and
Whereas the young and the young at heart eagerly await Santa's appearance every year; and
Whereas youngsters already are confused over the growing numbers of merry men wearing red suits during the holidays; and
Whereas some business operators are tempted to get a head start on their competitors at this festive and lucrative time;

and
Whereas it's difficult enough being a kid these days without having to look for Santa's arrival on six different days; and
Whereas parents enjoy shopping at malls without the fear of witnessing an unexpected visitor from the North Pole; and
Whereas parents don't need any more confusion in their lives,
Now therefore be it resolved that Santa Claus will come to town on Thanksgiving Day to begin the Christmas season.
Further be it resolved that all shopping mall Santas will adhere to this arrival date.
If adopted, the Santa clause still would leave a month of shopping time and preparation for the big event. That's enough for daddys, mommys, kids, mall operators, Scrooges and Santa Claus himself.

Holiday mail tips offered

With a little bit of care, holiday cards and packages can arrive on time and in good shape, says Postmaster Patrick J. Tobin of Belleville.
In addition to shopping and mailing early, customers are urged to properly address cards and packages with the name and house number and street (or post office box) number, and the city, state and zip code reserved for the last line. Use of apartment numbers is encouraged.
"It is also a good idea to put a slip of paper with the recipient's name and address and your return address inside parcels, and be sure the addressing on the outside of the parcel includes your return address and zip code," Tobin says.
Customers also are reminded to check the size of their envelopes before mailing Christmas and other holiday cards. Letter size standards require that envelopes be at least 3-1/2 inches high and 5 inches long to be accepted for mailing.
According to Tobin parcels will arrive at their intended destination in good shape if one follows a few simple suggestions:
CUSHION: Make sure contents are well-cushioned and there is no empty space in the box. Use crumpled newspaper around the item — including all sides, top and bottom. Commercially available foam shells or air-pocket padding also are good cushioning materials. Padded mailing bags are a good way to mail small items.

DON'T OVERWRAP: Just use your carton. Brown paper and twine cord are not necessary. Paper can rip, the twine can become entangled in mail processing equipment.
SEAL PROPERLY: Close your parcel with one of the three recommended types of tape: pressure sensitive, nylon-reinforced kraft paper, or glass-reinforced pressure sensitive. Don't use cellophane tape or masking tape — they aren't sturdy enough. It's a good idea to put a slip with the address and return address inside the parcel.
AVOID SMUDGES: Use smudge-proof ink for your addressing.
POSITION ADDRESSES PROPERLY: Put the recipient's address in the lower right portion of the package. Put your return address in the upper left corner of only one side of the package. Remove all other labels.

USE ZIP CODES: Be sure to include the zip code in both the recipient's and your address. Remember, wrong zip codes can delay the mail.
APARTMENT NUMBERS: Using apartment numbers or suite numbers, when you know them, helps us deliver mail in large buildings.
TIME IT RIGHT: Mail early in the month and early in the day.
USE THE RIGHT SERVICE: Irreplaceable items, such as cash and other valuables, should be sent by registered mail.
IF YOU RUN OUT OF TIME: Priority mail affords first-class handling for packages weighing over 12 ounces and up to 70 pounds. Priority mail can be sent from any post office, station or branch or through rural carriers to any address in the U.S. Delivery of priority mail is accomplished in two to three days anywhere in the country. Priority mail can even be used for foreign mailings.
The service is available with insurance, return receipt, COD, certificates of mailing and special delivery. Customers interested in priority mail should contact the post office for details.

substantially from merchant price discounting. . . no doubt making everyone happy.
Those merchants who lay back, letting the "other guy" do the promotions and the advertising, trying to tough it out at full price while others market at competitive discounts will lose.
Shopping has become more than a trip to town in the wagon for necessities. It is now, however, as it was then, family entertainment. It is still a family event, a night out now usually followed by dinner and a movie.

Whether you prefer the clamor and circus-like atmosphere of your local mall, or the convenience of your hometown merchants with their personalized service, they both have much to offer.
Tomorrow, shopping from home via cable communications and automatic fund transfer may become commonplace, or so we are told.
We've come a long way, but it seems we still have a long way to go. Happy shopping in the meantime.
See you next week.

The 'A' Team

Preps pack power on offense and on defense

By KEITH A. DeMOLAY
Special to ANP

Move over, NFL. Here comes the Associated Newspapers' 1984 Class A All-Area team, featuring an offense just as potent as any National Football League team can offer.

Running up a total offensive output of over 5000 yards, the Class A All-Area offense is one that any coach would love to have the opportunity to coach.

A prerequisite for any good offense is a quarterback who is versatile and this team certainly has one in 5-10, 170-pound John Stoitsiadis of Livonia Churchill. Stoitsiadis did everything for the Chargers this season except keep stats. If he had, he would have been impressed with his numbers.

Stoitsiadis rushed for 605 yards and 13 touchdowns and passed for another 1577 yards and 12 scores. He accounted for 25 end zone visits and 2182 total yards for the 2-7 Chargers, including a school-record 346 passing yards in a three-overtime 37-31 thriller over Plymouth Canton.

Coach Herb Osterland had high praise for his quarterback saying, "He can throw and run well. He's very quick and an all-around athlete."

Move over, Dan Marino. When Stoitsiadis isn't rushing or throwing the ball, the coach of this team can call on the likes of two dominating backs — 6-1, 180-pound Tony Boles, a junior from Westland John Glenn, and senior fullback Vince Morris (5-10, 180) from Romulus.

Boles, who posted 1012 yards for Westland John Glenn this season — the second Rocket to do so in school history — is a lightning-quick runner. Just ask Belleville's head coach Pete O'Neill, who saw Boles outrun his secondary for a 78-yard touchdown in the first game. When he isn't breaking loose outside, he is running over people inside as he did against Highland Park in the Rockets' 21-12 come-from-behind victory.

Chuck Gordon, who has coached many fine backs in his eight years as Glenn head coach, said that Boles "had a great season and made tremendous improvement from his sophomore year."

Boles rushed for 12 touchdowns and set a single-game school record with 260 yards against Belleville.

Next to Boles in this backfield is Morris, who played a big part in Romulus' 4-5 season. Morris missed three games because of an injury but he rushed for 600-plus yards and scored 10 touchdowns. Morris' high-water mark this season was his 205 yards against River Rouge.

Morris' coach, Norbert Glover, said of his high-scoring fullback, "Vince was the heart of our offense. We suffered without him, but he made a tremendous comeback."

With those two in the backfield, a coach could save a bundle on Grecian Formula-44. And with the addition of fullback Kevin Riley of Plymouth Salem at fullback, a coach might not even lose any hair.

The 5-11, 170-pound senior from Salem piled up 513 yards in only 84 carries a third of his team's rushing total as he helped Coach Tom Moshimer and the Rocks to a 3-6 record. Riley also scored 7 touchdowns.

When Stoitsiadis isn't running the ball himself or handing the ball off to Boles, Morris, or Riley, he surely can find Dave DeMay or Craig Morton downfield for a pass.

DeMay, a 6-1, 160-pound split end from Livonia Franklin, caught 32 passes for 400 yards this season including 7 for 86 yards in the Patriots' 7-0 upset win over Glenn and victory over Churchill. Coach Armand Vigna described DeMay as "the best split end we've ever had."

If DeMay isn't open, then surely Morton is. The 6', 160-pound senior receiver from Salem is making his second appearance on the ANP All-Area team. Morton caught 34 passes for 664 yards in 9984 and 9 touchdowns. His two-year totals amount to 1088 yards and 14 TDs. Morton is as versatile at receiver as Stoitsiadis is at quarterback, doubling as kick-off and punt return man, returning three of them this past season for scores.

However, no team could run the ball or throw it if it isn't for a strong offensive line. This team is no different.

If there is one person who would run behind, it certainly would be two-time All-Area performer and four-year starter Dave Mize (Sr., 6-1, 240).

Offense has plenty of power

Osterland said Mize is "a powerful young man who excels at the straight ahead drive block. "We ran behind Dave when we got to the goal line." Snapping the ball for Stoitsiadis is 6-2, 175-pound senior center Pat Walsh of Salem, who anchored an inexperienced offensive line for the Rocks and was instrumental in Riley's success at fullback. Sam Druker, Belleville's 6-4, 218-pound senior offensive tackle, helped Tiger Coach Pete O'Neill realize a 3-6 record and establish a firm foundation for 1985. Druker, who is ranked first in his senior class academically, also did well on the football grade with an 83 percent efficiency rating. He was voted second-team All-League in the Wolverine "A" Conference. Glenn with its 1000-yard performer in Boles, had a predominantly junior offensive line, which will help in experience next year when they join the prestigious Western Lakes Activities Association. But its lone senior starter, Jim Vojak

(6-2,216), showed the way with a dedicated performance prompting Gordon to remark, "He was our best blocker. He had a very good senior year and is a very intense player." Finishing off the Class A offensive line is 5-8, 170-pound offensive guard Jim Caruana of Wayne Memorial, described by Zebras' head coach Carter as a player who "very rarely missed an assignment and one that never came off the field." To make this team complete, one needs a kicker and one couldn't find a more complete one in 5-8, 154-pound Chris Piazza of Glenn. Piazza, making his second appearance on the "Magic 11", maintained the same standards he had set last year. Gordon described his kicker as "one of the most dedicated players I've ever coached". Piazza hit 18 of 21 points-after and four field goals, including a school-record 46-yarder that is still coming down. His 9 career field goals set a school record, also. Move over, NFL, here comes the ANP team.

Second best in the Great Lakes

The Van Buren Strikers wound up as the second best soccer club in the boys 13 and under division in the Great Lakes Soccer League this season. The team, sponsored by the Tim Lizzie Restaurant in Van Buren, is coached by Jim Lyos. The team posted a 6-2-2 won-lost-tied over-all record. The Strikers finished runner-up to the Dearborn Spartans, the only team to beat the local kickers in the league. Members of the Strikers include Rob Haeske (first row, from left), John King, Allen Henderson, Chris Zweng, Scott Sikes, Brian Lavegue and Rick Samson; second row are Craig Mulenga, Eric Faulkner, Mark Hall, Nick Lyos, Mike Braswell, John Duff, Marty O'Sullivan, Joe Smith, Jason Walton and Coach Lyos.

Glenn claims share of championship

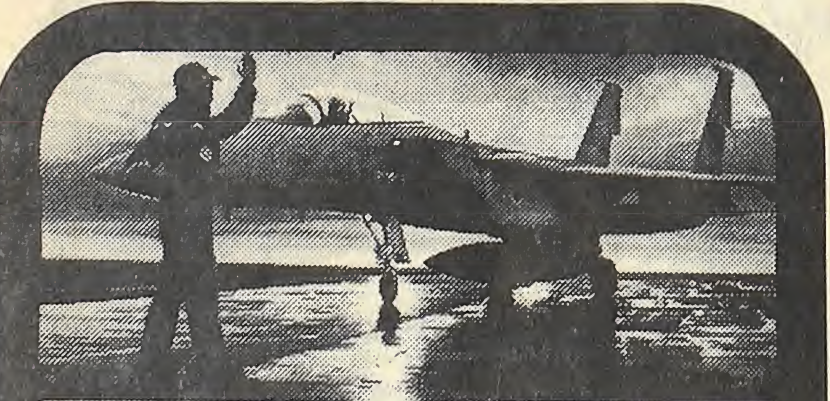

"Give Up" has long been a motto for John Glenn High School students and athletes, and it was no different this season for the girls' varsity basketball team. Before a crowd of fired-up fans at Glenn's renovated arena, the Rockets proved the motto correct by defeating North Farmington, 50-41, to claim a share of the Northwest Suburban League title. Led by senior Cheryl Dozier and sophomore Jenney Okon, the Rockets built a 23-13 lead over the Raiders by the 3:57 mark of the second quarter. But North, who entered the game tied with Glenn and Franklin for first place, outscored the Rockets 10-2 and cut the lead to 25-23 at the half. Glenn came out after halftime and took it to the Raiders. Despite the fact that the Raiders shut down the high-scoring Okon for most of the third quarter, Dozier and her senior teammate Julie Pucci, got hot and scored six points in an 11-6 run that netted the Rockets at 36-29 lead at the end of the period. But North was not done yet. They opened the final stanza with a seven-point surge, keyed by guard Lisa Mummert, that tied the game at 36-36. Momentum had shifted, but not for long. A minute and 43 seconds later, Okon got loose for a bucket and Glenn never trailed again. The Rockets built that 38-36 lead to its final 50-41 margin keyed by baskets by Pucci, Michelle McCullen, and Dozier. As the motto says, they "never gave up."

GIVE YOUR SPECIAL SOMEONE A CHRISTMAS TO REMEMBER FOREVER! THIS GENUINE BREAKTHROUGH IN WOOD HEAT TECHNOLOGY MAKES IT POSSIBLE.

Christmas is a time for lovers of all ages. Winter magic surrounds everyone. Christmas trees. Candles and twinkling lights. Crisp white snow. Cuddling before a crackling wood fire in the hearth. And some consumer expert reminding us that the heat from our hearth is heading up the chimney along with lots of warm air from our home. Wasteful magic? The edge goes off the pleasure. The crackling fire is extinguished...along with the fire in our hearts. At least, in homes where the dream of warmth and coziness has to die to economic reality.

But now a genuine breakthrough in wood heat technology makes it possible to give your special someone a Christmas to remember forever. This breakthrough is called a "catalytic combustor". As a leader in wood heat technology, Blaze King has enhanced the performance of catalytic stoves and fireplace inserts. The stove burns the wood. The combustor burns the smoke. Causes more heat. Maximizes heat extraction from the wood. Puts the heat into the home, not up the chimney. What goes up the chimney is cleaner. Means fewer and less frequent chimney cleanings.

With a Blaze King catalytic more hours (24 to 30) pass from the time you or your special someone load the stove until you have to load it again. Extends cuddle time. With such a large and deep firebox, ash cleanup also is done less often. This means less mess. UL Label means safety for your home. For proof of these results from a genuine breakthrough in wood heat technology, ask for your free copy of "More Than Hot Air", a report comparing eight of the best wood stoves available...including the Blaze King. Call now 1-800-331-1009.

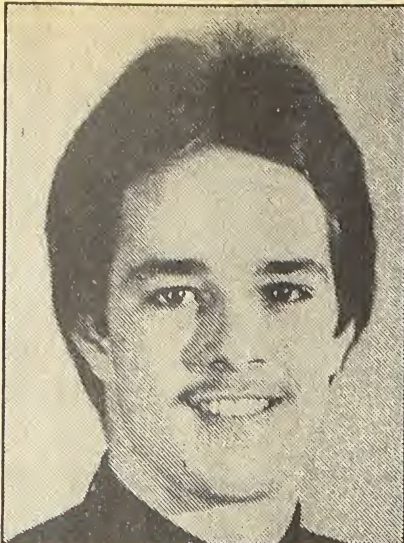

Bring back the magic of Christmas. The delight of wood heat in your most intimate moments. Give your special someone a Christmas to remember forever. Blaze King makes it possible.

Barr receives post season honor

Canton mentor is Coach of the Year

By BOB TURON
ANP Special Writer

One of the goals of the Canton football team this season was to be the best team in the school's history. A strong case can be made for saying the Chiefs reached their objective.

The 1984 squad not only equaled the school's best won-lost record at 4-5, they also scored more points and yielded fewer than any previous Chiefs team.

For these accomplishments, Associated Newspapers has named Plymouth-Canton coach Richard Barr as its Class A Coach of the Year.

The personable Barr, now in his fifth year as a head coach and coming off a season that saw his team win only one game in nine tries, began this year with guarded optimism. "We desperately wanted to reach the .500 level," Barr said, "and, with a few breaks we would have made it."

Made it indeed. With any luck at all the Chiefs could have realistically been 8-1. Only the Farmington Harrison game was out of reach as Barr's charges either had the lead or were tied late in all other contests. But a questionable penalty or an inadvertent fumble seemed to always be their downfall.

To Barr's credit the Chiefs came to play each week, no matter how tough the previous loss might have been.

"We feel Rich and his staff are doing a superb job," says Plymouth-Canton athletic director John Sandmann. "The attitude of his players and the number of kids who turn out indicate how highly he is thought of."

The 43 year old Barr has been in coaching for 20 years. Prior to taking the Canton head coaching job, Barr served a four year stint as an assistant at arch-rival Plymouth-Salem, where oldest daughter Michelle is now a senior. Younger daughter Jennifer, a ninth grader at Pioneer Middle School, and wife Beverly are the other members of the Barr household.

Barr, who also serves as a physical education instructor at Canton, is optimistic about the future.

"We are going to lose a lot of speed in our offensive backfield," warned the Canton mentor, "but we will pick up some size from our very successful JV team."

Preps pack power on offense, defense

By KEITH A. DeMOLAY
Special to ANP

If there is a glamour position on defense in today's offensive-minded football, it has to be the linebacker, a position made more important by the switch to the 3-4 defensive scheme.

The 1984 ANP All-Area defensive team also features the linebacker, strength of this squad lies in the four young men who occupied that position for their respective teams this past season.

Leading this linebacking corps is 6-2, 210-pound senior Ken Krug of Belleville, described by Tigers' head coach Pete O'Neill as the "heart of our defense, a leader, and very dedicated." Krug was in on 61 tackles and picked off two passes. He also recovered three fumbles as he led the Tigers to a victory over traditional powerhouse Monroe and near-upsets of state powers Trenton and Dearborn Fordson.

Joining Krug in the linebacking corps is 6-3, 225-pound senior Mike Korzetki of Wayne Memorial. Korzetki led the Zebras with 76 tackles and recovered two fumbles.

Scott Campbell of Plymouth Canton, who rebounded from a 1-8 season in 1983 to 4-5 this season, is the third linebacker on this squad. He was the Chief's leading tackler and was voted first-team All-League in the Western Lakes Activities Association.

John Montroy, a 5-10, 175-pound senior from Romulus' 4-5 squad, rounds out the linebacking corps. Voted All-League in his first year as a starter, Montroy was described by Eagles' coach Norbert Glover as a "team leader who kept the team spirits up. He came on strong as a linebacker."

In front of these four linebackers is a defensive line that many a coach would not mind having as his own. The strength of this team lies at the defensive end position, manned by Jeff Meixner (Glenn) and Dennis Montie (Belleville).

Meixner, at 6-3 the tallest Rocket and its most versatile, started both as a received and defensive end for two years for Gordon's squad. Voted All-League as an end, Gordon praised Jeff as a "natural athlete (he was track MVP last spring) ... he had a very good year."

Meixner was third on the Rockets in tackle points with 136 but picked off three passes from his end position and played havoc with opposing quarterbacks. He caught three touchdown passes including the one that tied the game at 46-46 in that memorable four-overtime win against Redford Union. Coupled with the two he caught the year before, Meix-ner tied a long-standing Glenn record for TD passes caught in a career.

At the other end of the ANP defensive line is 6-2, 195-pound Dennis Montie who, according to O'Neill, was "always around the ball." If he wasn't making 47 solo tackles, he was sacking the quarterback thrice. Opposing punters also feared him because of two blocked punts and the rush he would put on them. And speaking of punting, Montie proved his versatility by performing as the Tigers' punter, averaging 34 yards.

Dave Kaitschuck of Wayne Memorial rounds out the line of the ANP squad. Called by Carter as his "most consistent lineman," Kaitschuck (Sr., 6-0, 190) was responsible for 52 tackles and put pressure on opposing quarterbacks. He sacked four of them to lead the Zebras in that department and also recovered two fumbles.

The defensive backfield featured two athletes who helped their teams immensely at their position and provided senior leadership. Dave Knapp of Plymouth Canton, described by Chiefs' head coach Rich Barr, as "the best overall athlete on the team," helped his team improve to 4-5 and kept opposing receivers busy. Knapp also excelled as the team's quarterback, leading them in rushing, including a 69-yard scoring run against Churchill.

Scott Lucas, a 6-1, 172-pound senior from Glenn joins Knapp in the ANP defensive backfield. A two-time All-Leaguer, Lucas picked off three passes including one that he returned 56 yards for touchdown against Belleville in the first game. Gordon described Lucas as "a very physical player, one that has all the traits you look for in a defensive back." In addition to his football career, Lucas is an outstanding wrestler having earned All-League honors in that sport as well.

Rounding out the ANP squad is Canton senior Dan Olsewski, who did the punting chores for the Chiefs and earns the nod as the All-Area punter for 1984. Olsewski averaged 44.6 yards every time he punted the pigskin and kept the Chiefs out of trouble most of the year.

'Babes in Toyland' is holiday fare

Victor Herbert's fun-filled fantasy, "Babes in Toyland," will be the holiday fare at Henry Ford Museum Theater, Dec. 1 through Jan. 12.

Originally presented on Broadway in 1903 as an adult operetta, this fairy tale set in a magical land inhabited by toys soon became popular with a younger audience as well. Mother Goose characters including Jack and Jill, Peter Piper, Little Red Riding Hood and Contrary Mary are featured along with a dancing and singing chorus. The musical offers such holiday hits as "The March of the Wooden Soldiers" and "Toyland."

Audiences will be invited to meet and take pictures with actors after each performance, which runs approximately two hours, including two intermissions.

Performances are scheduled at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. on Dec. 1, 8, 15 and 22 and Jan. 5 and 12, and at 2 p.m. Dec. 26 through 31.

Tickets are priced at $3 each with all seats reserved. For further information, contact the Reservations Center at 271-1620.

Snowmobile trails to open

If Mother Nature provides her usual snowfall this winter, sports enthusiasts can enjoy 5,000 miles of snowmobile trails in Michigan.

The 170 trails listed on the Auto Club of Michigan's Snowmobile Guide are located in 63 state parks, two southern game areas, six state forests and four national forests. They range from the two-mile-long Camp Nine Trail near Connerville to the 200-mile network in the Ottawa National Forest, both in the Upper Peninsula.

Snowfall is usually adequate for snowmobiling by Dec. 1 in the U.P. and by the Christmas holidays in Lower Michigan. State law requires snow depth of at least 4 inches on snowmobiling trails.

Trails will be open Jan. 1 through March 31 in southern game areas following the bow-and-arrow deer hunting season.

The state's public snowmobile trails usually are groomed weekly by state workers and 50 local government and private groups. Because state funding determines the extent of trail grooming, snowmobilers should check conditions at local DNR offices before starting a trip.

Although off-trail snowmobiling is allowed on state forest land, it is prohibited or restricted in national forests. Rangers' offices should be contacted for rules.

Some 190,000 snowmobiles are currently registered in Michigan compared to 240,000 last year. Statewide registrations peaked at 400,000 in the early 1970s and dropped to 232,000 in 1981.

Registration is $15 per person for a three-year period and non-residents are required to buy a $5 one-year permit per person. A $2 daily or $10 annual motor vehicle permit is required to operate snowmobiles in state parks.

Youths aged 12 to 16 who pass an eight-hour, state-approved snowmobile safety course may drive unsupervised across public land. Children under 12 must be supervised by an adult to ride on public property.

Last year 12 persons lost their lives in snowmobiling accidents; 5 of the victims were on vehicles which fell through ice.

Snowmobilers are urged to follow these safety rules:

- Dress properly. Avoid clothing which may tangle in equipment.
- Carry tools, spare parts and extra fuel.
- Carry survival and first aid kits with a compass, maps, waterproof matches, food and extra clothing.
- Stay on marked trails and watch for fences and wires concealed in snow.
- Avoid alcohol consumption.

Southward--Doolittle exchange vows

The First Presbyterian Church of Saline provided the setting for the Oct. 12 nuptial of Rosalie Southward of Saline, formerly of Belleville, and Harry Doolittle of North Adams, Michigan. Eighty family members and guests were in attendance for the 7 p.m. ceremony, officiated by the Rev. Lee Cotter. Organist for the ceremony was Bonnie Milkie of Milan, who played selections from Bach and Purcell. Given in marriage by her brother, Ralph Bird of Belleville, the bride chose a cream-colored lace dress with satin accents for the nuptials. Her bouquet, the floral arrangements for the ceremony and the maid of honor's bouquet were designed by Gloria Pichan of Romulus. Serving as the maid of honor was the bride's daughter, Kris Southward, who wore a soft peach-colored dress, accented with long sleeves and a matching cummerbund. The duties of best man were performed by Don McElroy, longtime friend of the groom, of Northville. Serving as ushers were Gary Wheatley and Roger Bird, both of Belleville and nephews of the bride. A reception for the newlyweds

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Doolittle and their guests was held at Leutheuser's of Saline. The three-tiered wedding cake served at the reception was a gift to the newlyweds and the creation of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Cyril and Virginia Bird of Belleville. Out-of-town guests for the wedding came from North Adams, Lansing, Leonard, Rochester, Northville, Hillsdale, Livonia, Sterling Heights, Albion, New Bost and Dearborn. Out of state guests came from Mansfield, Ohio, Elkhart and Bristol, Indiana, and Jackson, Langsburch, Addison and Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania. The couple enjoyed a four-day honeymoon in northern Michigan and Canada, including a trip on the Algoma Central Railroad. The new Mrs. Doolittle is employed at Spring Arbor Distributors of Belleville as an assistant to manager of marketing. Her husband has been employed for 21 years with the Ford Motor Company as a product design engineer for the heavy truck division in Dearborn.

PLANTERS CORNS

With this process deep seated corns on the bottom of the foot are vaporized.

Pioneer spirit: Her enlistment makes history

By CHRISTINE RIZK
Special to ANP

She was born just before the 1929 depression: she raised five children and grew to adulthood during a time when, for a man it would have been difficult to succeed, but as female, almost impossible. All these factors could considerably place her in the running for a role as a "pioneer" of sorts for having succeeded where others had failed.

But Annie Gilliard doesn't think she is much of a pioneer. In fact, she just laughs at the suggestion and shrugs off the idea.

She may be laughing, but members of the U.S. Marine Corp are taking her "pioneership" very seriously.

Gilliard, a former Inkster resident of nine years, was honored Nov. 10 in San Diego by a club for black Marines, when the group got together to celebrate the 42nd anniversary of the Marine Corp.

Gilliard was the first black female to enlist in the Marines.

When she made the decision to enter in 1949, she had no idea that she was the first black female to do so.

"If I had known all that I might of changed my mind," she said, laughing.

But, she added, "I have no complaints at all."

The idea to enter the service emerged simply enough for a female, who had just struggled successfully through two years of grueling business school at the Detroit Institute of Commerce.

She was, she admitted, some what discouraged by the fact that she made more money working her way through school than she could have upon graduating.

"I made more money jerking sodas than being a secretary," she said, pausing to add that it's probably still that way today.

So, after the hard work in school, she set herself up for an even greater challenge — she signed up, with four girlfriends, for the Marines — and was the only one accepted.

What would convince a 20-year-old woman, a young black woman, to enter the service (at a time when only six years earlier the Marine Corp has just begun enlisting blacks and in that very year she enlisted — 1949 — had just ended the practice of segregated training)?

The answer, she said, is simple.

She needed a job, money and a sense of security. Uncle Sam provided that.

"You didn't have to worry," she offered as her prime reason for enlisting. "Everything was provided for you — food, housing, clothes."

That, and the fact that the television commercials calling for young adults to enter the services were so appealing.

"It was something about that uniform (her two brothers were in the Air Force)," she said, "and that slogan 'Just a few good men and a few good women.'"

She made it up in her mind then that she wanted to be one of those few good women.

But she was only, and still is, five feet, two inches and a little over 100 pounds.

"I had to have a weight waiver, and I ate bananas for more than a year," she said, again laughing.

Being a woman in the service didn't bother her. In fact, it merely encouraged her to succeed.

"A woman," she repeated defensively. "Why, it's my country too — I've always been patriotic."

She served for three years as a secretary for the Commandant's Headquarters in Washington, D.C.

After her Marine stint, she worked for the Air Force's Willow Run plant as a secretary and later, as a civilian, as a secretary at Wayne County General Hospital.

She recalled no instances of discrimination in the Marines and said that they did all they could to accommodate the 21 girls — two of them black — in her platoon.

She married in 1954 and lived in Inkster and later moved to Westland, where she's lived for 27 years.

After 30 years of marriage, she has finally settled down from all the ice skating, music, dancing and athletic events participated in by her three girls and two boys.

One of her sons went into the Army, but after 18 months changed his mind. It wasn't for him, she said, too hard.

Her ability to survive the Marines stemmed from her childhood upbringing.

She was used to hard work and giving respect. She was raised on a farm in Georgia and "did everything a man did," including slopping the pigs and milking the cows.

Going into the Marines, she said, was like going home.

Her mother worked in a factory, and it was her mother's strong independence that led her to master her own fighting spirit.

Her father, on the other hand, was just plain strict.

She graduated from high school without ever having gone on a date. On those few occasions when she did go out, her father accompanied her.

"I'd rather have gone into the Marine Corp than stay home with dear, old dad," she recalled.

Nowadays, she is settled into the role of grandmother. No drills, no 5 a.m. wakeups, no Marine sergeant routine. "I'm just plain old mom."

The idea that she's done something different — that she may have paved an easier path for others like herself, who were simply trying to survive the hard times, comes a little hard for her. The Marines, afterall, taught her reserve and humility.

"I didn't realize that maybe I have something to be proud of — I guess I do now, but back then everyday was just life to me."

Making history

In 1949 Annie Gilliard was Pvt. Annie Graham, the first black female to enlist in the U.S. Marine Corps. Gilliard worked as a secretary in the Records Branch of the Marine Corps Headquarters in Washington, D.C. oblivious to the history she made in joining the service for a job, money and a sense of security. On Nov. 10, she was recognized for her accomplishment by a club for black Marines, who presented her with a plaque. Gilliard doesn't think she's a pioneer, but those who enlisted after her do and remember it on the 42nd anniversary of the Corps.

Group provides self-help, support for medical retiree

"We're too old to go back to school and too young for senior citizen activities. We've fallen through the cracks in the world."

The speaker was a member of the medical retirees support group, a self-help group for men and women who have been forced into early retirement because of medical problems. Sponsored by Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA), the group meets each Thursday from 10 a.m. to 12 noon at the PCHA central office annex in Wayne.

"This group was started because there are a large number of people facing critical problems due to early retirement," said Dave Brunette, the group's organizer. "All of us have been employed for most of our lives and would work if it were possible. But suddenly we found ourselves unable to work and living on drastically reduced incomes. Financial pressures, loneliness and boredom built up and we had no outlet. Basically, that's why the group was started, we needed help and there was no organized way of getting it."

Brunette was a truck mechanic for 19 years until two serious heart attacks forced him into early retirement. The change in his medical condition brought about in his life was drastic.

"The problems are incredible," Brunette said. "they're the kind that someone who has not experienced them just cannot understand. Financially, there is a constant struggle with employers, social security and insurance companies. Many of us still have children at home to support. Beyond that there's the monotony of each day being unable to work, sometimes being unable to even go for a walk.

"It's a major change in a person's life, a change that requires support."

Never the type to remain idle, Brunette began searching for ways to actively solve the problems he encountered. One sympathetic listener was Robert Wagner, a PCHA board member from Westland. Wagner interested the PCHA administration in the problem of medical retirees with the result that the support group was formed under the direction of PCHA Health Education Director Mary Anne Homann.

"We began to meet in May and now have about 10 members," Brunette said. "At each meeting we have a guest speaker who addresses some issue of concern to us. We've had lawyers, psychologist and occupational therapists.

"And part of each meeting is devoted to talking among ourselves, sharing experiences and working out solutions to problems. One major strength of this group is the mutual support and aid we give each other. We all have each other's phone numbers and on rough days we can call each other.

"Because the mutual support is so important we're actively recruiting new members. There are a great number of people with the same problem and they are all invited to join us."

For more information on the medical retirees support group, call Dave Brunette at 595-1940.

Quality pays off

Workers at the Romulus Detroit Diesel Allison manufacturing plant recently received the coveted "Q1" Preferred Quality Award from the Ford Motor Company. The award was given because of "independently and consistently meeting Ford's company quality standards."

Red Cross Red Cross establishes Famine Relief Fund

The Southeastern Michigan Chapter of the American Red Cross is accepting contributions for African Famine Relief. More than $21,500 in unsolicited contributions already have been received by the local chapter.

Chapter Chairman Anthony J. Vinci announced that the executive committee of the board of directors has approved a campaign to raise a minimum of $120,000 from the citizens of the metropolitan Detroit area.

Checks should be made payable to American Red Cross, earmarked "African Relief" and mailed to: Executive Office, American Red Cross, Southeastern Michigan Chapter, P.O. Box 351, Detroit, MI 48232.

Contributed funds will be channeled directly to the League of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies, which is coordinating a worldwide African Relief Campaign.

"Helping people in need at home and abroad is a Red Cross tradition," said Vinci. "But, perhaps no disaster has ever posed a greater challenge to Red Cross than the famine in Africa. Literally thousands of men, women and children are starving to death every day. In some places in Africa it has not rained for two years."

The League of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies has issued a worldwide appeal for $37,000,000 in emergency relief. The American Red Cross has promised to raise a minimum of $5,000,000 to help the relief effort in 12 of the most severely affected countries. The Southeastern Michigan Chapter goal of $120,000 is part of the national Red Cross effort.
